3. BRIEFING

1. Sitrep

a. Situation

The enemy is in the process of converting Soviet-built Romeo-class submarines to launch intermediate-range nuclear-tipped missiles.

The conversion work is taking place at North Korea's Pipa-Got naval base and shipyard on the west coast.

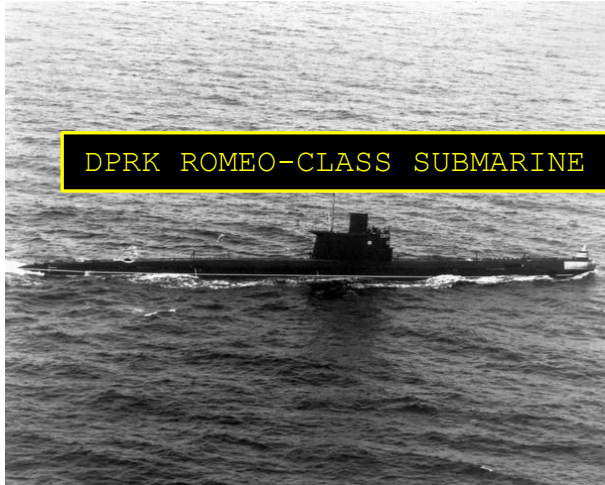

The facility is protected by a tiered system of air defense systems.

In addition, a total of 4 air bases with MiG 21, MiG 23 and MiG 29 are located in the immediate vicinity of Pipa-Got.

3. BRIEFING

An aerial satellite image of a coastal region. A large yellow text box is centered in the upper half of the image, containing the text "PIPA-GOT SUBMARINE BASE" and "NAVAL SHIPYARD" in a yellow, monospace-style font. Below the text box, a yellow rectangular highlight is drawn over a portion of the land, showing a network of roads and some structures. In the lower-left corner, a small island or peninsula is visible with two white airplane icons. The background shows a mix of dark water, light-colored land, and dense green forest.

3. BRIEFING

1. Sitrep
 - b. Mission

The mission consists of the complete shutdown of the Pipa-Got naval base.

In addition, the suppression of anti-aircraft defense and one (?) frigate in the vicinity of the shipyard is required.

A diversionary maneuver is planned to take advantage of a surprise moment in the attack.

For this, radar and air defense installations east of the target area will be attacked.

3. BRIEFING

1. Sitrep
 - c. Execution

Neutralize the Pipa-Got naval base.

To do this, suppress enemy air defenses and naval units (frigate) in the vicinity of Pipa-Got to the extent necessary.

Ensure air superiority.

Conduct a diversionary attack on enemy radar and air defense installations east of the target area.
